NEW QUESTION: 1
Intel and AMD are adding functionality to their microprocessors to improve performance of virtualized environments.
Which type of virtualization MOST benefits from these technologies?
A. Operating System Partitioning
B. Hardware Virtualization
C. Hardware Partitioning
D. Paravirtualization
E. Emulation-based technologies
Answer: D Explanation:
Paravirtualized (PVM) -- A software interface similar but not identical to the underlying hardware is presented to the guest operating system. Paravirtualization provides hooks for guest instructions so that complicated tasks can be performed by the host instead of the virtual machine, where performance is worse. Paravirtualization requires that the guest kernel is ported to be made aware of the virtual environment.
