NEW QUESTION: 3
You are developing an ASP.NET MVC application. The application is deployed in a web farm and is accessed by many users.
The application must handle web server failures gracefully. The servers in the farm must share the state information.

You need to persist the application state during the session.
What should you implement?
A. A web garden on the web servers
B. Cookieless sessions
C. An InProc session
D. A state server
Answer: D
Explanation:
Explanation
ASP.NET session state service provides a somewhat slower service than the in-process variant as we need to make calls to a remote server. All session data is stored in memory so shutting down the state machine will wipe out all session data as well.
Incorrect:
Not D: The InProc option is particularly dangerous in a web farm environment. For example imagine one farm machine which stores the session state but not the other. Subsequent web requests from the same user may not read the correct session state.

D. Option B
E. Option A

The line
init core file pattern: /var/core/core.%f.%p will be used for the non-global process to determine the destination of the dump file.
Note: When a process is dumping core, up to three core files can be produced: one in the per-process location, one in the system-wide global location, and, if the process was running in a local (non-global) zone, one in the global location for the zone in which that process was running.
