Answer: A,C,F

Explanation:
Explanation
https://docs.aws.amazon.com/awscloudtrail/latest/userguide/best -practices-security.html If you have created an organization in AWS Organizations, you can create a trail that will log all events for all AWS accounts in that organization. This is sometimes referred to as an organization trail. You can also choose to edit an existing trail in the master account and apply it to an organization, making it an organization trail.
Organization trails log events for the master account and all member accounts in the organization. For more information about AWS Organizations, see Organizations Terminology and Concepts.
Note Reference:
https://docs.aws.amazon.com/awscloudtrail/latest/userguide/crea ting-trail-organization.html You must be logged in with the master account for the organization in order to create an organization trail. You must also have sufficient permissions for the IAM user or role in the master account in order to successfully create an organization trail. If you do not have sufficient permissions, you will not see the option to apply a trail to an organization.
